Driving to Laos or Malaysia: Border Pass Questions

Wheelguard Motor Insurance PCL · Help article MC-114, version 3 · Updated 14 September 2026

The Wheelguard Border Pass extends a Wheelguard private car policy so that the insured vehicle keeps its cover while it is driven in Laos or in Malaysia. It applies to Class 1 and Class 2+ policies only. Class 3 policies cannot be extended.

1. Which countries and roads are covered?

The Border Pass covers the whole of Laos and Peninsular Malaysia. Sabah, Sarawak and Singapore are not covered, even if you enter them by road from Peninsular Malaysia.

2. How do I buy a Border Pass?

1. Log in to the Wheelguard app and open My Policy > Travel Abroad, or call 02-118-4460.
2. Choose the country, the travel dates and the border checkpoint you will use.
3. Upload a photo of the vehicle registration book.
4. Pay by card or PromptPay. The bilingual certificate is emailed within 2 hours; print it and keep it in the car.

You must buy the pass at least 3 working days before departure. Requests made later are accepted only for travel to Laos through the Nong Khai checkpoint, where same-day issue is available until 15:00.

3. How much does it cost?

For Laos the price is 180 baht per day. For Malaysia it is 260 baht per day. Any period of 15 days or longer is charged at a flat 30-day rate of 3,900 baht for Laos or 5,600 baht for Malaysia. Until 31 August 2026 the Laos daily price was 150 baht; passes bought before that date keep the old price.

4. What excess do I pay for a claim abroad?

A fixed excess of 3,000 baht applies to each own-damage claim made outside Thailand, in addition to any excess already shown on your Thai policy schedule. Third-party bodily injury claims have no excess. Windscreen-only claims abroad have an excess of 1,000 baht.

> Note. If the driver is under 25 years old, the excess for an own-damage claim abroad rises to 5,000 baht.

5. What should I do after an accident abroad?

Call the Wheelguard 24-hour line, +66 2 118 4499, before moving the vehicle unless it is unsafe. Get a police report from the local police station and take photos of all vehicles. Send the police report and photos through the app within 7 days of returning to Thailand. Repairs abroad are paid only if Wheelguard approves the repair quote in writing first; otherwise the car is repaired at a Wheelguard garage in Thailand.
